ENVOYS' ARRIVAL AT PORTSMOUTH DELAYED BY FOG

Program for Reception of Russian and Japanese Commissions and Beginning of Peace Conference Delayed a Day.

M. WITTE GOES OUT SIGHTSEEING IN BOSTON

Leaves Mayflower on Account of Seasickness and Will Go Rest of Journey by Land.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 7.—Portsmouth is disappointed.

No peace squadron arrived this morning. It is somewhere on the way, having left Newport early this morning, bearing the Japanese and Russian peace envoys, all except M. Witte, who is spending the day in Boston and Cambridge sightseeing. He especially wanted to see Harvard University and Bunker Hill.

He left the Government yacht Mayflower last night at Newport on account of seasickness, telling Assistant Secretary Pierce he would take a night's rest and go on by land.

The delay of the fleet bearing the envoys was caused by heavy fogs yesterday, which made Commander Winslow lay to for absolute safety of the commissioners.

Although news was promptly given yesterday by Rear Admiral Mead of the Portsmouth navy yard, upon learning that the United States warships bearing the representatives of Japan and Russia had been delayed by fog at Newport, the news of the postponement of the functions had not reached many of the citizens of Portsmouth and its environs.

Consequently, this section of New Hampshire was astir early, and by 8 o'clock every electric line from the country was bringing many sightseers.

When the fact of the postponement became generally known there were many expressions of disappointment, but on the circulation of rumors of the possible arrival of the ships, most of the crowd decided to have a holiday, anyway.

The postponement of the functions necessitated hurry orders to the State troops, which were to arrive here from all parts of the State. Gov. McLane was up at daylight dictating telegraphic orders to the militia to remain away until tomorrow.

Instructions were also despatched to the congressional delegation of the State, the members of which had been invited to participate.

Gov. McLane this morning received a message from Third Assistant Secretary of State Pierce at Newport stating that on account of fog last night the Mayflower and Dolphin, and Galveston, their convoy, would not arrive until Tuesday morning, and that the proposed reception should be postponed 24 hours without any change in the program already arranged.

A formal notice was therupon issued to that effect.

Hotel Swarms With People.
The Hotel Wentworth is swarming with people from all parts of the world; Japanese are here and Russians and Englishmen and Frenchmen and Americans by the score, but not a person in authority as the envoys are not yet here.

Perhaps it was the fog that made it; at any rate, everybody who talked of the situation during the 24 hours was pessimistic.

The prospects of peace were tremendously dreary. It was held that the conference would break up before the end of the week.

Wise ones said that if it lasted through the week it would come to a successful conclusion.

There are representatives here of two or three big financial concerns of New York. These are not prominent men, but scouts, rather, who will keep their employers in touch with the situation.

These men say the money markets of the world do not show any indications of a failure of the conference. They say Witte knows and has been told that Russia can get money anywhere for peace, but not for war. They say the financiers both in this country and abroad are satisfied there will not be a failure of the negotiations.

Russians to Have Preference.

Mr. Pierce telegraphed the Admiral that the Russians were to be given precedence while here. The point made by the President was that the Japanese called on him first and had to be received first. The point made by Mr. Pierce is that as Russia maintains an embassy in this country and Japan only a ministry, and as the function here today is a State Department affair, the Russians are to be recognized before the Japanese.

The envoys will be escorted to the Rockingham County Courthouse in Portsmouth, where the Governor will

Japan Demands Control of Mainland Bordering Her Sea, and Indemnity

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PORPSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 7.—The peace conference situation here, on the best of authority, is said to be this:

The Japanese, flushed with victory, are going to demand enormous indemnity, probably three or four billion yen, and intend to drive Russia out of Manchuria, to hold Port Arthur and keep Korea, to take the railroad from Port Arthur to Harbin, to keep Sakhalin Island; in fact, to control all the territory touched by the Sea of Japan.

The Russians, it is said, will never submit to these terms. They will grant nothing in territory, probably not even an indemnity; thus the conference would break up.

It was said that the Japanese terms would be made known by the end of the week and that Russia would withdraw as soon as Komura laid down his ultimatum.

MORTON HAS NA. ROW ESCAPE, KODAKER SPY PROVED PRINCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Paul Morton, President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and son, Morton, narrowly escaped personal injury last night when their automobile ran into an eighth avenue car at Forty-fourth street.

The Mortons were on their way across town in two cars when they had met at the Pennsylvania Railroad Depot, when, in attempting to avoid a southbound car, the wheels slipped and the machine struck the car, giving the new. The conductor was thrown from the platform and slightly hurt and the automobile was temporarily disabled, but no further damage was done.

WANT "LID" ON SUNDAY CONCERT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 7.—It is quite likely that another lid will be applied in Jefferson City. For several Sunday evenings past a new band headed by Prof. Geo. Bartholomew has been giving free open air concerts on the Capitol grounds, which have been attended by thousands of the best people of Jefferson City, who enjoyed to the utmost the fresh air and music of a good quality.

The ministers of the city, headed by Dr. E. E. Miller, pastor of the Methodist Church, have complained to the Board of Commissioners having charge of the grounds, and protested against the use of the grounds for such a purpose on Sunday.

Gov. Folk is chairman of the board, and while no official order has been issued, it is understood that the lid will be applied in the future, and there will be no more Sunday evening concerts.

POLICE AUTO IN WILD CHASE IN FOREST PARK

Policemen, After Terrific Run, Apprehend Chauffeur Whom They Claim Was Running 40-Mile-an-Hour Rate.

PURSUERS USE SAME SPEED HALF MILE BEHIND

Continuous Tooting of Horn Warns Persons on the Drive-ways and Mad Race Terminate Without Casualties.

William Kersten, 1011 Walton avenue, chauffeur for an automobile company, was fined $25 and costs by Judge Tracy in the City Hall Police Court Monday for driving an automobile at a rate of 40 miles an hour through Forest Park and neighboring boulevards. A thrilling story of an exciting chase was told by the policeman, who were in the police automobile, which overtook the speedster machine. The police testified they were going 40 miles an hour.

Saturday evening the officers, Policemen Cooney and Stinger, say they saw Kersten's machine whirl around the bend at Sylvan Lake at a rate that looked like 30 miles an hour. They gave the word to their chauffeur, Emmet Evans, to overtake the scorchers. Full speed was thrown on by Evans and the chase began.

CITY AUTO HALF MILE BEHIND

The city's automobile was one-half mile behind as Kersten went sailing west around the bend and over the rise past the music pavilion to Clayton road. Speeding along this road, he balanced the offerings by the original distance, though the latter say they were running 40 miles an hour. Kersten ran one-half mile. Then striking the connecting driveway he swerved back into the park, turning north past the deer enclosure and into the Grand drive again. Then south again the pursued and pursuers went to the driveway leading into the World's Fair grounds. They ran west on this drive through the grounds and up Nigger Hill.

There Kersten's hat blew off. He stopped his machine. By the time he had run back to it and had reached his automobile again the officers were upon him. He was arrested and taken to the Mounted District Station, where he gave bond for his appearance in court.

Kersten declared he did not know that the officers were chasing him, but the men of the police machine believe that it was real race.

At no time, they say, did they interfere with the drivers or others in the park, though many others were on the different drives. Fortune and the sound of their tooting, however, the path for them, they say, though their speed, for the surroundings, was terrific.

There was no bond.

Both Claim Stock of Groceries Son Now Holds.

Justice O'Halloran will hear an unusual dispute this week concerning the ownership of a stock of groceries, claimed by a father and by a son. Accompanied by the son, Constable Gillis, went to the home of the son's sister, Tenth and Lanti streets. FAIR; TEMPERATURE STABLE

It is an optimistic forecast sent out by the local weather observer today. He says:

"Fair tonight and Tuesday; slight change of temperature. Light variable winds."

Last night's storm was of the energetic and satisfactory kind; it went at once to its work, got through with it and disappeared.

It began at 11:15; at 11:45, 47 inch of water had fallen. Then it drizzled while lightning flashed weakly and thunder rolled rapidly until 2:35, when it was all over.

The storm was preceded three hours by a ten degree drop in the temperature—from 85 to 75 degrees.

Showers are reported generally over the country, with heavy local rains in New York, Pennsylvania, Florida and Oklahoma.

The report from New Orleans indicates somewhat cooler weather there today. The 7 a. m. temperature was 78, two degrees cooler than Sunday, when the maximum was 90 degrees. The conditions were clear.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

St. Louis and vicinity—Fair Monday night and Tuesday; slight change in temperature; light variable winds.

Wheaton—Fair Monday night and Tuesday; variable winds.

"CUT THE WEEDS, KILL MOSQUITOES, PREVENT MALARIA!"

Police and Health Board Profiting by Lesson of Panic in South Begin Crusade to Rid City of Disease-Breeding Vegetation—"Untold Illness From One Unkept Lot."

MOSQUITOES, BORN IN WEEDS, CARRY MALADY

Millions of Insects Beginning to Spread Infection Will Be Killed, Say Physicians, If Ground Is Cleared—Policemen Ordered to Report All Neglected Spots.

FINE OF FROM $10 TO $100 FOR UNCUT WEEDS FOOT HIGH

City Ordinance, section 1.—Any owner, lessee or occupant, agent, servant, representative or employee of any such owner, lessee or occupant, having control of any lot of ground or any part of any lot, who shall allow or maintain on any such lot any growth of weeds to a height of over one foot, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than ten nor more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered for the use of the City of St. Louis, before any court having competent jurisdiction.

The Health and Police Departments today joined hands in a war on weeds and mosquitoes in St. Louis as a result of the yellow fever panic in the South.

For several weeks the Health Department has been citing lot owners into court for failure to cut and remove weeds from their lots. Today Chief of Police Kiely issued an order, supplementary to the permanent police manual order, for all patrolmen to report to the Health Department all lots, alleys or streets on which weeds remained uncut.

Chief Kiely's order was telephoned personally to the captains, who were told to have their men also notify agents and owners of weed-ridden lots, and if the weeds were not cut promptly to obtain police court summonses against the offenders. Reports are to be made to Chief Kiely, who says he is determined that the police shall do all in their power to correct the nuisance.

Dr. Snodgrass, Health Commissioner, declares the Health Department will lead the crusade against weeds as the most important part of its work just now. An increase in malaria throughout the city, co-incident with the appearance of mosquitoes, gives warning of the danger.

MILLIONS OF MOSQUITOES.

"Millions of disease bearing mosquitoes are being bred in vacant lots in St. Louis among weeds which the city ordinance says must be cut at this season of the year, when malaria is general. Every citizen should see to it that the ordinance is obeyed," he said to the Post-Dispatch.

Continuing, Dr. Snodgrass said: "I do not refer to the danger from yellow fever, which is hardly likely to touch St. Louis, but of the danger from malaria which can fairly be said to be epidemic in the city.

"The period of panic through which the South is passing, and which has driven many residents of Southern cities to us, shows the need of cutting off every possible chance of infection through this pest, the mosquito.

MOSQUITOES LIKE WEEDS.

"Weed patches form an ideal breeding place for the mosquito. Damp spots and pools exist in almost every upstate, and in every drop of water mosquitoes may breed.

"It is possible for a hundred cases of malaria to result from one tin can, and as for one patch of weeds, no one can estimate its possibilities.

150 Cases for Prosecution.

"In the police courts, 150 cases are ready for prosecution and there will be no let up in the efforts of the inspectors until the owner of every weed-covered lot is compelled to cut the weeds and keep them cut. In the past two months, more than 2000 cases have been served and in many cases the weeds have been cut before the case came into court.

"There where is a lot whose owner is known to be neglecting his duty and who has not yet been cited to appear in court, it is the duty of every citizen to co-operate with the department and for the public good, call the attention of the authorities to the offender.

"Cut the weeds and see all receptacles for water are screened and not only will there be no danger from yellow fever, but malaria will be practically eradicated."

Forman Urges Crusade.

H. A. Forman, President of the City Council, and acting Mayor, urges the necessity of cutting the weeds.

"All citizens should have enough pride in their city to see that the weeds are cut," said President Forman Monday.

"In this season, when many property owners are out of the city, it is hard to reach many persons whose lots show lack of attention. Many of them don't care and take no steps until they are in the police courts."

Dr. John Young Brown, superintendent of the City Hospital, said:

"Mosquitoes and the anopheline are the cause of malaria. Every patient in the hospital who is supposed to be affected with the disease has his blood tested microscopically for the organism causing the disease."

"Some deaths have occurred in the hospitals from malaria and the number of cases is daily increasing, so that measures for the eradication of the mosquito as cause of the disease should be pushed to the limit."

Dr. H. J. Scherck, chief Dispensary physician said

1000 MEN WILL TRY TO CLEAN STRICKEN CITY

There Is a Slight Improvement in Reported New Infections and Surgeon White Is Very Hopeful.

ARCHBISHOP CHAPPELLE IS IMPROVED SOMEWHAT

Prayers Were Offered in All the Catholic and Episcopal Churches for the Abatement of Yellow Fever.

Special to the Post-Dispatch
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 7.—The greatest cleaning in the history of cities is now being given New Orleans under the combined supervision of the United States Government and the volunteer sanitary organizations of New Orleans. This morning 1000 men were put to work cleaning every ward, and they will work constantly under the supervision of foremen until Wednesday, when the dirt will be collected and disposed of.

Wednesday is the day set for all business houses to close, that all carts, wagons, floats and other vehicles may be available for hauling trash and dirt, and that the cleaning force may be greatly added to.

It is expected that on that day 10,000 men will be at work in the streets of New Orleans.

The United States Public Health and Marine Hospital service now has complete charge of New Orleans and lines are being laid for a campaign against such as was never known before.

The citizens have pledged the sum of $350,000, basing their estimate on the use of $300,000 a day, which is $100 per man more than the service asked for.

Yellow fever report to noon, Aug. 7: New cases in New Orleans, 4; total cases 53; deaths, 3. Total deaths, 108.

Conditions Improve.

The good effect of Federal control is already evidenced in the favorable view of the situation which is shown by interviews with the health authorities in nearby States, and it is thought that little difficulty will be encountered in securing a modification of the restriction against freight.

The Louisiana parishes are already becoming more reasonable and some of them are announcing their willingness to receive goods from this city. With a revival of business New Orleans can be made rapidly furnish all the money needed by the government.

The fact that there was a slight fall in the number of new cases, a decrease in the number of deaths and a marked diminution in the number of new fever within the preceding 24 hours has had a marked effect on the spirits of the community and confidence is growing that with repressive measures now being instituted there is little probability of a serious epidemic. Dr. White estimates the total expenses for eradication at $1000 to $2000 per day, or from $180,000 to $360,000 for four months, which would carry the campaign into December, by which time frost may be expected. There is, therefore, available enough money to go forward with the Federal plan at high pressure.

Archbishop Improves.

"The prelate is holding his own," Dr. Larue said, "and unless complications set in his chances for recovery are promising."

Archbishop Chappelle is about 40 years old, of massive build and a good liver. The city officials are keeping a quarantine on the archbishop's premises and only the attending physicians and nurses are allowed to enter the place.

In response to a request of Bishop Beausse, of the Episcopal diocese of Louisiana prayers were said in the Episcopalian churches here asking divine intercession for the removal of the deadly stenomysia mosquitoes and the eradication of the fever. At a late hour thousands of people knelt down that the city be relieved of the present affliction.

"I join my prayers with the people for divine blessing to bring speedy success to the efforts to stay the fever," said Bishop Beausse, "and that with the help of God the city and its sister states be spared the affliction of a wide and long continued scourge."

Dead Returns to Life.

An extraordinary case of the dead returned to life was the most exciting incident in the fever situation. A supposed fever victim was Emil Lopez. Lopez gradually sank and was at length declared dead by a reputable physician.

The body was laid ready for burial.

A few hours before the burial Mrs. Lopez went in to take a last look at her boy. She stooped and kissed him, and as her lips touched his she was terrified to find that his face was warm and his lips moist. She called the burial party and declared her son was not dead. She kissed him a second time and died.

"He is alive; my boy lives." Then she swooned.

The physician who pronounced Lopez dead could not be found. Another succeeded in bringing the youth back to life. He was unconscious for an hour or two, but he gradually recovered his strength and is almost recovered.

The last vessel of the Louisiana naval brigade has returned to New Orleans. No new case has been reported outside of Louisiana for several days.

Two steamers, the "Columbia" and "Wabash," which were established Saturday, were raised today.

The steamer "Columbia," from Colon,

Help Save the Babies

The return of hot weather has emphasized the need for more money to carry on the Free Ice and Pure Milk campaign among the poor in St. Louis.

Pasteurized milk is distributed free to all mothers of babies who are unable to buy the pure article and would otherwise be compelled to subside their babies on the poisonous stuff sold for a trifle in the sections of the city in which they live.

In order that the milk may be kept sweet, ice is also distributed free.

Free ice is sent to the homes of invalids who are unable to purchase this necessary means of comfort.

All this costs money. Won't you help the work along by sending a contribution to the Post-Dispatch?

WHEN RAILROADS ARE NOT LIABLE

Telegraph Operators Are Fellow-Servants of Firemen—
Plaintiff's Domestic Habits Were Always Exemplary.

Two decisions were handed down in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here Monday of particular interest to railway employees and passengers.

Mr. Alline A. Dixon sued the Northern Pacific Railway Co. for damages for the death of his son, a fireman, killed in an accident due to the negligence of a telegraph operator who falsely reported that a train had not passed his station.

The deposition covered the operator's defense.

Nicholson said that he had done all sorts of work about racetracks, had been sheet-writer and cashier for bookmakers and had been ticket-taker at the races.

Detective Williams, who with Detectives McGrath and McQuillan, made the arrest of five alleged touts, testified that he had seen Nicholson about the tracks in St. Louis for years and that he had never seen him work.

Nicholson said that he had done all sorts of work about racetracks, had been sheet-writer and cashier for bookmakers and had been ticket-taker at the races.

He asked that Edward Crow, cashier at Delmar track, be permitted to testify in his behalf. Crow said on the stand that Nicholson had worked at the track.

Morton said that his children were always well behaved.

Testimony to the effect that the operator's arrest and confinement were usual was ruled out temporarily, though the plaintiff argued that on this arrest was based the claim that his wife was liable for the conduct of the objectionable passenger the conductor had done all that was expected and gave a verdict for the railroad.

The custom of becoming intoxicated is looked down upon both socially and officially in the army," he said.

Crow looked angry but did not answer.

"Were you ever a tout?" he asked.

"Mr. Nicholson says that all racecar men become touts when they are broke and have no other way of getting money."

Crow looked angry but did not answer.

The case of Thomas Thorpe, on the same charge, was continued until Tuesday, when he says he will have a witness to prove he did not work.

Two of the men were down with malarial fever and the Captain and five others are rapidly convalescing of yellow fever.

All Questions About the Miserables Standing Settled for Kansas Democrats.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 7.—Democrats of this State are rejoicing that Gov. Folk of Missouri takes a drink on occasion.

Ever since the name of the St. Louis detective began to creep across the Russell Line, stories of the conduct of the Missouri border, "what-kind of a Democrat Folk is," has interested Kansans.

It was not until Friday, when several leading Democrats returned with the Governor of Missouri from the Dodge City reunion, that the question was answered by Judge P. Dillard.

"I don't know," was the answer.

I have heard that he did, and have heard it denied. As a good Kansas Democrat I would like to know. Suppose we send the porter after him and tell him we want to see him."

The other members of the party agreed and the Governor, who may be a presidential possibility, was called to a smoking room to settle his standing with Kansas Democracy.

"We're about to take a drink," said Judge Dillard, the spokesman, and we'll drink it together. We have heard so many conflicting stories that we thought the best way would be to ask you where's the bottle?" asked the Missourian; the drink of bourbon whiskey he took was large enough to astonish the chaser of water offered after whisky the Missourian also added his standing and Kansas Democracy is how under his command.

PERJURY CHARGE AGAINST FARRIS TO BE DROPPED

Acquittal in Bribery Trial to Be Followed by Nolle Prosequi of Indictment by St. Louis Grand Jury.

SMITH BRIBERY CASE IS TO BE DISMISSED

Exclusion of Farris' Bank Account Believed Fatal to State—Immunity for Lee Also Weighed.

State Senator Frank H. Farris, acquitted by a jury at Jefferson City Sunday of the charge of bribery, growing out of the alum baking powder bottle exposure, accompanied by his wife and father, Capt. John W. Farris of Lebanon, left St. Louis for his home in Steelville, Crawford County, at 9 a. m. Monday.

"I have no comments to make about the case and the verdict of the jury is, of course, what I expected," remarked Senator Farris to a party of friends who proffered congratulations on the case.

Former Senator Charles H. Smith, accused of receiving a bribe of $1000 for his vote on the alum bill, was about the La Cledo Monday.

The evidence in the Farris case bears on the Smith indictment in several particulars, and at the recent trial former Lieut.-Gov. John A. Lee declared he was not sure Senator Smith received an envelope containing $1000 at the La Cledo Hotel nor that if he did get the envelope could he say it contained $1000.

To Dismiss Smith Case.

In view of this development it is said the indictment against Senator Smith will be dismissed probably this week.

There is still an indictment for perjury against Senator Farris now pending in the St. Louis Circuit Court. It is based on Senator Farris' testimony relative to the alum matter given before the St. Louis grand jury in April, 1903.

It is said this indictment will be nolle prosequi, as it relates to the same evidence and deals directly with the same charge of which Senator Farris has been acquitted.

Senator Farris was tried for the first time at Jefferson City in 1903, but the jury found him not guilty.

The second trial concluded Saturday night.

The jury retired at 9:40 Saturday night and returned a verdict at 10:25 Sunday morning, being out just twelve hours and forty-five minutes.

Fourteen Ballots Taken.

Fourteen ballots were taken. On the first ballot the jury stood five for conviction and seven for acquittal. On the second ballot the defense gained one and for ten ballots four jurors held out stubbornly for a verdict of guilty.

On the twelfth ballot two changed from conviction to acquittal and the remaining two changed on the fourteenth ballot.

The jurors remarked afterwards that they failed to find sufficient corroboration of the testimony of John A. Lee to warrant any other verdict.

Another moving consideration, they said, was the fact that Lee had been guaranteed immunity by the state.

Immediately after the verdict was announced, Gen. Emmett Newton, of Governor Folk's military staff hurried from the court room to the telegraph offices and filed a number of dispatches notifying friends throughout the State of the jury's action. He also sent long distance phones to spread the news.

Later Newton joined Senator Farris and the members of the train and accompanied them to St. Louis.

"Moral Yearnings Too Weak."

"The moral yearnings of rural communities are not sufficient to entice (1) to convict in cases where the testimony of an accomplice," said Attorney-General Hadley.

The ruling of the court, excluding the Steelville bank books, showing Farris' bank account hurt the State's case.

Lee testified that, March 19, 1901, he handed to Farris at the La Cledo Hotel for safe keeping six senators besides himself, $600.

The records of the bank of Steelville, which Gen. Hadley offered as a corroborative circumstance, deposited that on March 20, 1901, Farris deposited in the Steelville bank a total of $600. Out of this sum Farris received an over draft for $500 and a note amounting to $300.

The cashier of the bank testified that he did not remember this particular transaction, which was never deposited the money, but he would vouch for the accuracy of the bank's records.

Bank Records Excluded.

Judge Davis held that such evidence would do.

If the witness cannot remember the transaction," said the Court, "these books must be excluded."

In addition, on a hypothetical murder case, the defendant is arrested two years after the crime is committed, and the victim killed the autopsy shows he was the user of cocaine.

The druggist who sold the arsenic has kept a record of the sale. The record is destroyed the day before the murder was committed.

The druggist is summoned, but he cannot recall that he sold the poison to the defendant, and the coroner makes a note of each purchase and the man who makes it.

"But under your honor's ruling," urged Gen. Hadley, "that record would be of no service to the State."

Judge Davis held the illustration of the record on par with the issue presented in the Farris case.

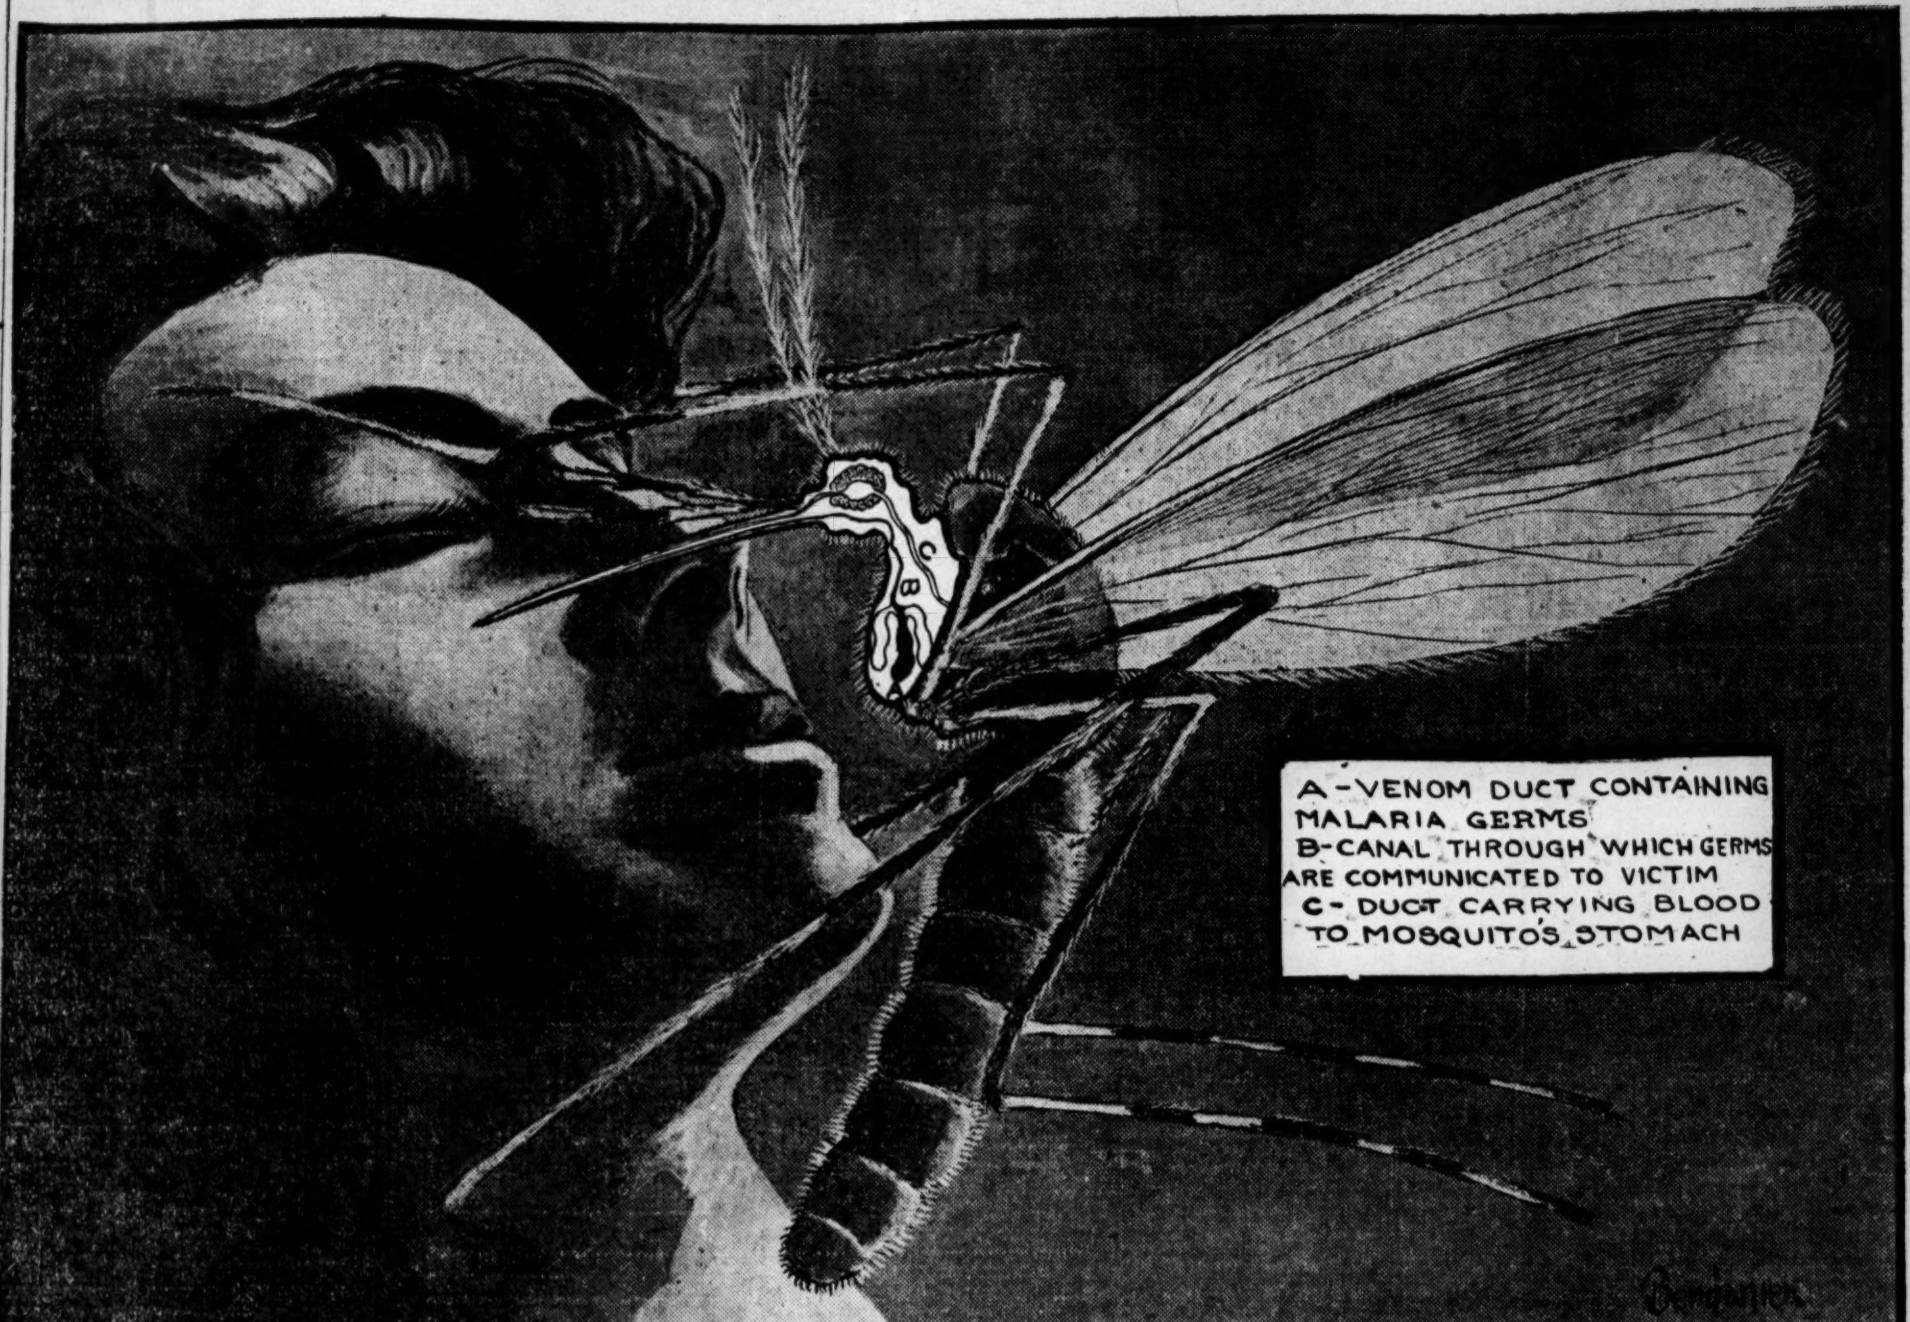

Mr. Hadley then sought to have the court allow testimony showing that the defendant had been compelled to deposit himself, still the money was in the bank to his credit and that would be a circumstance for the jury to weigh.

On this point Judge Davis again ruled against the State.

CHAPTER I. Did the Stage Need Her?

MICHAEL BURKE was a puddler in the stamping company's mill. He earned too much money, being expert in the management of bolling iron and overfond of red liquor, which had been called the oil of joy, but should be labeled the acid of sorrow.

At just that point between the red, overcast by blue, stage and the blue-white stage of the pudding mass in the furnace Burke would get in with his stumps and stand on his toes and maul the lump until instinct guided him to yank it forth to be sent crackling through the rolls, scattering showers of blue, red and gold sparks like a Fourth of July bunch of pyrotechnics.

For five hours of this skillful work Burke received $5, a sum altogether out of proportion to the daily needs of a household inured through generations to less than eight of the sum.

Therefore if he laid off two or three days a week and spent much of his wage at the saloon there was no complaint.

Three daughters made the Burke home merry. There was Maggie, gifted in recitation, who, at the age of 12, astounded Hyde Park Council, Legion of Honor, with her ultra-dramatic rendering of "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight." You know how it goes: "Over England's hills was setting at the close of one sad day," etc. And there was Alena, whose feet stuttered whenever a musical instrument was heard in her neighborhood, and Patricia (otherwise Pat, Patti, Patie, Chia, P. Honey, Sweetness and half a dozen other names), who was especially gifted in song, but could dance nearly as well as Alena and recite better than Maggie.

Genius Is Insanity?

By Cesare Lombroso.

The true normal man is not the man of letters or of learning, but the man who works and eats.

The lunatic, among barbarous people, is feared and adored by masses, who often confide to him supreme authority.

In modern times the same conviction has been preserved, but in a form, it must be confessed, altogether disadvantageous to genius. Not only is fame (but until recent years even liberty) denied to men of genius during their lives, but even the means of subsistence.

After death they receive monuments and rhetoric by way of compensation. And why is this? Neither the jealousy of rivals nor the envy of mediocre men is enough to explain it. The reason is that if we leave out certain great statesmen (though there are exceptions, Bismarck, for example), men of genius are lacking in tact, in moderation, in the sense of practical life. In the virtues which are alone recognized as real by the masses, and which alone are useful in social affairs. Good sense travels on the well-worn paths; genius never.

And that is why the crowd, not altogether without reason, is ready to treat great men as lunatics.

It has been objected to me that my studies of genius are deficient in utility. To this I might reply with Taine that it is not always necessary that the true should be useful. Yet numerous practical applications arise out of these researches; they furnish us with explanations of those strange religious insanities which become the nucleus of historical events.

The examination of productions of the insane supply us with new sources of analysis and criticism for the study of genius in art and literature; and above all, these data bring an important element to the solution of penological questions, for they overthrow forever that prejudice by which only those are declared insane and therefore incurable, whose reason has entirely departed, a prejudice which has handed thousands of irresponsible creatures to the executioner.

The show us, lastly, that literary madness is not only a curious psychological singularity but a special form of insanity, which hides impulses the more dangerous because not easy to perceive, a form of insanity, which, like religious insanity, may be transformed into a historical event.

"Ye painted woman," he cried, "wash yer face or I'll paddle ye wid yer mother's washing stick."

Oh, never to be forgotten occasion: Alena took her behind the scenes. She saw the chaos of the seamstress and elaborated actors on terms of familiar association after the audience had applauded them rounly.

Mrs. Burke being up and seeing the weariness of her life Alena had made strenuously opposed Patricia's determination to make for herself a stage career.

"Isn't it enough shame to one family that its got one actor woman, slathering the pretty face God gave her with nasty paint?" she inquired.

"You don't understand, mother," Patricia would respond weakly, weakly, but ever with a note of determination back of her apparent gentleness.

"No, 'tis not for the likes of me to understand why girls would be anything but decent and respectable like their mothers and their mother's mothers before me."

You are so narrow, mother. Ladies are ladies, whether they're on the stage or off. Alena's a good girl."

"Is she then well. I'll thank you to keep your defense of her till her mother says she isn't."

For all the bitterness of her condemnation, Mrs. Burke loved the theater and lived great moments seeing Alena in her stage splendor. She raged as vigorously at Burke when he criticized the course of Alena or condemned the ambition of Patricia.

The girl accumulated pennies to buy dramatic papers, read all the theatrical news in the local papers and became as thoroughly conversant with the detail of theaters, actors and plays as one might be who has such sources of information.

At 18 she was still thin and childish in appearance though not noticeably lacking in flesh and her voice was pure, true and strong. She read music naturally, she sang for the joy of it and danced because her feet were as capable as her strong small hands.

Mrs. Burke washed her soiled linen on Monday, as every housewife in her set was accustomed to do.

There was no response to her cry. With many a strange word she mounted the stairs to the kitchen, found the kettle nearly boiled dry, the breakfast dishes unwashed and no Patricia anywhere.

It was night before the girl clad in her Sunday finery, returned.

"O, mother," she cried, oblivious of the threat in the woman's face, "I'm in the Delmar chorus!"

"You're what?"

"I've got a job to sing at Delmar Garden in opera and," she added with impressive slowness, "I'm to get ten whole dollars a week."

"Ten dollars!" cried Mrs. Burke, "and pretty Jessie O'Connell only gets $6, and it's three years she's been in the big store down town."

Patricia had launched a good barb.

Contentment.

Give me a lawn that cools my feet, Close-grown and fresh and soft and clean.

Three little maids with hair of gold, Whose laughter scarce disturbs my dream;

And for a guardian of our ground, Well tried through many changing years,

And let the world go ringing past; Let others range from shore to shore;

These simple pleasures bind me fast; Give me but these, I ask no more.

—From Punch.

Points of Needles.

THESE are the points of small, sharp needles, highly magnified. Without the microscope, all three would have points of invisible sharpness. As may be seen from the illustration the three are of varying fineness, though this would hardly be apparent with the naked eye.

Regrettable.

A certain editor was visited in his office by a ferocious-looking military gentleman, who exclaimed, excitedly, as he entered: "That notice of my death in your paper today is a lie, sir. I'll horsewhip you in public, sir, if you don't apologize in your next issue."

The next day the editor inserted the following apology:

"We extremely regret to announce that the paragraph in our issue of yesterday, which stated that Col. Brimstone was dead, is without foundation. —Harper's Weekly."

SOUTH MOURNS FOR CAPT. E. P. HOWELL

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 7.—The funeral of Capt. Evan P. Howell will be one of the largest ever held in Atlanta.

He died yesterday from a carbuncle and diabetes. He was one of the leading men of Georgia.

He was appointed by President McKinley to investigate the conduct of the war with Spain. He long held control of the Atlanta Constitution. Late he retired.

He was born Dec. 10, 1829, in Milton County, Georgia, whence he enlisted in the Confederate Army. Being a lawyer, he was Solicitor General during reconstruction days.

He was delegate-at-large to National Democratic convention. He served in both branches of the State Legislature.

GRIMES CLUBHOUSE was not sold, but is still entertaining all comers.

Died From Old Age.

Old age was given as the cause of death of Mrs. Elizabeth Wiselogel, aged 82, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emily Bryant, 333 Indiana avenue, from where her funeral will take place on the arrival in St. Louis of her four sons. Born near Hamburg, Germany, Mrs. Wiselogel came to this country when 15 with her parents, who settled in Ohio. She has been a resident of St. Louis for nine years and is buried by her husband, Michael J. Wiselogel, aged 82, two daughters and four sons.

New Home For Business College on Delmar

Brown School to Make Headquarters in Structure at Vandeventer Corner.

The accompanying view, from the architect's drawing, shows the handsome building at the southwest corner of Delmar and Vandeventer avenues, soon to be occupied by Brown's new Business College. The building is nearing completion and the school will be ready on Sept. 5th with every modern appliance for school work.

Mr. G. W. Brown, the noted Business College teacher and manager of the Mississippi Valley, has a lease for ten years on the second and third stories which have been designed and built for the special use of this school. More than 15,000 square feet of floor space will be used by the school.

The Exhibit made at the Fair last year, by Brown's Business Colleges, showing a model school, with teachers and students at work, will be repeated by World's Fair visitors. The Brown schools are located in sixteen prominent cities of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri and everywhere stand for the best in business education.

The grand prizes and several gold medals were awarded their St. Louis exhibit and this is the first grand prize ever received from any World's Fair by a private commercial school.

When Mr. Brown opened his exhibit at the Fair he had no thought of locating in St. Louis. A residence here of several months convinced him that this city offers great opportunities for such a school as he is establishing here, and he decided to make St. Louis the center of his system of schools. The total enrollment of his schools is nearly 10,000 students annually.

This school, destined to attract hundreds and thousands of young men and women from all parts of West and South America, is to be located in the heart of the business section of the city, one of the many direct results of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

The building is being erected by the "Delvan" Real Estate Co., under the direction of Storm & Parish, the well known real estate agents of this city. Mr. Brown will open his office in the new building on Aug. 15, and will then be prepared to receive calls from his many former students and friends of this city, who may be interested in inspecting the splendid quarters for his new school.

John Humphrey, 310 South Sixth street, was fined 25¢ and costs in City Hall Police Court Monday on the charge of maintaining a lottery.

Humphrey's arrest resulted from complaints against him and another charge. A traveling man complained to Detective McKechnie that he had given Humphrey $1 for two tickets, the price of which was 25 cents, and that he received no change.

Humphrey, when seen by the detective, denied the charge, but said the traveling man was counterfeit and that change was refused for that reason.
